

Good morning Team Aaron,

We are finally able to tell you about the cool project that Aaron was asked to be a part of that we hinted about in January. There is a new series streaming on Disney+ called "It's a Dog's Life". Bill Farmer, the voice of Goofy and Pluto, and his wife, Jenn, wanted to produce a show that highlights dogs and the amazing jobs they do.

Bill and Jenn met Aaron in April of 2018 when they came to visit Sarah. Bill is one of Sarah's voice acting mentors. They are Christians and fell in love with Aaron and the ministry. Fast forward to June of 2019 when Bill told Sarah his plan for this show and how he wanted Aaron to be involved somehow. In January of this year, we recorded a short interview that will be used as one of the "Hometown Heroes" segments near the end of the season.

The format of each episode highlights two dogs that Bill visited with, includes a short segment on pet tips, and ends with a "Hometown Heroes" segment. "Hometown Heroes" are short recordings that the dogs' humans filmed, answering interview questions about the work the dogs do in their hometowns.

It would have been great if Aaron would have been chosen for one of the main segments, but we are grateful that the Farmers chose him as a Hometown Hero. Even though it will be short, we thank God for the opportunity to share the LCC K9 Comfort Dog ministry with such a large audience.

The series premieres today on Disney+. If you don't have Disney+, there is a one-week free trial. After that, you can pay monthly and cancel at any time. Aaron's segment will be in July, near the end of the season (Episode 9 or 10 – we are awaiting confirmation). If you can, please support this awesome show!

Thanks to everyone who helped prepare the photos and videos we sent to the producers. We don't know what they chose to include, but we know we gave them a lot of great options. We can't wait to see the final product!

Please share Aaron's post on your social media platforms to help spread the word! With enough support, there may be a Season 2!
